Nilit, a global manufacturer of premium Nylon 6.6 apparel fibres, will display fabrics for base layer and athletic apparel applications, at the Performance Days functional fabric fair, in booth #217. The expo, which will be held on April 18 and 19, 2018, in Munich, Germany, will show fabrics in functional sportswear, athleisure, safety, and durability.

Nilit's vice president of global marketing and R&D, Pierluigi Berardi, will also present a workshop on April 19, 2018, entitled 'Performance Fabrics for People and Planet'.

Performance Days Fabric Forum Selections by Sensil, the premium Nylon 6.6 from Nilit for apparel, from premium European fabric producers, Pontetorto, Taiana, and Liebaert, will be displayed at the show. These beautiful fabrics are designed with Sensil Breeze, which provides athletes with a refreshing cooling effect when body heat and temperatures rise. They are perfect examples of the multi-tasking, comfortable, long lasting heat management designs that capture the attention of demanding consumers.

Pierluigi Berardi will discuss cooling fabric technology in the "Performance Fabrics for People and Planet" workshop on April 19, 2018. Co-presenters will be Christiane Rauch, Nilit's senior consultant-marketing Central and Northern Europe, and Louisa Smith, textile fashion forecaster and journalist. The workshop will be held in room R09. (GK)
